

Paul Garnault graduated E.15 Acting School in London and after many years as an actor moved into directing.

As Artistic Director of the Wales Actors' Company he steered the way to create one of the most successful professional national theatre companies in England touring high quality, innovative productions in the UK, Ireland and France.

He has directed lauded productions of Hamlet, Romeo and Juliet, Dr Faustus by Christopher Marlowe and many musicals. The company has worked with some of the foremost writers in the UK including Ian Rowlands (The Sin Eaters) and Edward Thomas (House Of America) as well as actors such as Sir Anthony Hopkins (former patron of WAC), and Ian Hughes (of the RSC).

Paul directed Midsummer Night's Dream at The Globe then a world tour of USA, Russia and Germany in 2016.
