

Reviews provided by members of the Audience Club

The Affairs Of Anatol - Pentameters Theatre

Reviewer & Rating	Review
Sandra Mueller (5/5)	Being the master of deceit and yet being terrified of the same. A tale of love and fears. What a wonderful translation of Schnitzler's book. I was clinging to the actors lips as the dialogues became delightfully intrinsic. Don't miss the chance to see another gem in Leonie's magical theatre which she has run for 50 years and as was announced got a community award; hope for many more great plays to come.
Philip Woodward (4/5)	The production comprises an English translation of four one act plays written by Arthur Schnitzler in the 1890s. There is a cast of four, Anatol and his friend Max, and two women play the female characters. The cast are excellent and versatile and the plays are entertaining, involving Anatol's relationships with different women and his somewhat inept dealings with them, sometimes farcical, sometimes sad. It's a friendly quirky theatre close to the Underground and a production well worth seeing.
Anastasia Alura (5/5)	The stage was in period as was the music that greeted us. Leonie the owner got on stage and introduced the play. She was warm and welcoming as usual. The costumes were so beautiful and detailed. The acting was superb. It was a thought provoking subject which was skilfully conveyed to the audience by the superb actors on the stage. I enjoyed my evening's entertainment.